Forecast For Yorkshire & the Humber
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 17 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Becoming increasingly cloudy with the odd spot of rain.

This Evening and Tonight:
Largely dry this evening, with prolonged clear spells. Cloud increasing after midnight, bringing the chance of the odd spot of rain, but generally it will remain dry. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Thursday:
Rather cloudy, with the odd spot of rain across eastern parts, although some brighter spells further west. Cloud and wind increasing later in the day, with patchy rain spreading westwards. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Cloudy Friday with some patchy rain and drizzle. Mostly dry Saturday and Sunday but still rather cloudy. Feeling cool underneath the cloud.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.